PLURALITIES APPROXIMATE 70 PER CENT. OF COLER'S

In New York County-Disappearance of the Devery Vote-Brooklyn's Slump Indicates That Pat McCarren Is Pretty Good Prophet When He Knows.

The Tammany ticket was apparently going to be elected anyway, but the slump in Brooklyn shown by the earliest returns made it certain within little more than an hour after the polls closed that the victory was to be a tremendous one. The decisive figures were unusually early in coming in.

The Devery vote made a strictly private disappearance. Devery's name figured in the first election district returned, which was the Fifth of the Eleventh Assembly district. He got 3 votes there. But in his own Ninth Assembly district he got only 935 votes, and hardly enought to count in the boroughs outside this county.

Among the Republican Assembly districts of the county Mayor Low lost heavily, for instance, losing 900 votes in the Twentyseventh. But he lost heavily also in the Democratic districts. The returns from the heavy Republican districts were about the last to be completed. the last to be completed.

The figures of the vote, so far as completed when this edition went to press, are:

Shea, Rep.; Seventy-second district, John D. Gillies, Dem.; Seventy-first district, John J. Collins, Dem.; George Cromwell, the President of the Borough, ran ahead of his ticket and had a bigger plurality than Low, getting 377 more votes than Judge Marsh, the Muller candidate. Cromwell's energetic campaign accounted for this, and the fact that the borough went for fusion is generally conceded to have been the result of the new ferry plan with which President Cromwell and the Low administration were credited and which they made

tration were credited and which they made the issue in the campaign.

The Republicans failed to elect their candidate for Sheriff, George Metcalfe, Charles J. McCormack, the Democratic candidate, getting a plurality of 469. The Democrate elected two of the three Alder-men, John D. Gillies and John J. Collins. Cornelius A. Shes, the Republican candidate, was elected in the Seventy-third district.

BROOKLYN FOR M'CLELLAN.

TAMMANY CANDIDATE WINS BY Mate. 1 1.144 PLURALITY.

Kings Democrats Elect Whole County Ticket-Littleton Runs 4,000 Ahead of His Ticket-Clarke Claims 16,000 Plurality-No Music for McLaughlin.

This is the net result of the election in Brooklyn so far as obtainable last night: For Mayor, McClellan, Dem., 102,790; Low, Fus., 101,646; Devery, 214. Grout and Fornes received substantia majorities, and late returns indicated that Grout ran ahead of McClellan. The Democrats elected their entire county ticket by pluralities close up to the mark for McClellan, except that Clarke, for District Attorney, runs ahead of his ticket

The elected candidates are: John F. Clarke, District Attorney. Martin W. Littleton, President of the men and the Democrats 10. Of the twenty-two Aldermen elected 16 are Republicans or Fusion, and 12 Democrats. A fusion defeat was foreshadowed by the first returns which came in, but the later returns indicated that the fight would be close. The first four election districts heard from showed a falling off of 207 votes for Low, compared with the vote in these districts in 1901, or an average loss of fifty in a district, which, if carried out, would give McClellan a plurality of less than 2,000.

The returns, however, as the canvass progressed were so confusing that at one time it looked as if Low would have a plurality of 5,000 or 6,000. This was due to his great gains in some districts, both Republican and Democratic, over two years ago. The general result, however, was known early in the evening, and caused such a whirlwind of Democratic jubilation all over town as had not been witnessed in many

Hugh McLaughlin, whose bolt from the regular ticket was the political surprise of the campaign, received the returns in his nome, surrounded by a few of his faithful lieutenants. He is evidently deeply chagrined over the result, but refused to make comment last night. He conceded from the early returns that McClellan would have a plurality of 5,000. Mr. McLaughlin was not serenaded last night, as he always has been in previous years no matter how the election went.

State Senator Patrick H. McCarren was at Thomas Jefferson headquarters in Court Square shortly after the polls closed and he remained there until midmight while a corps of expert figurers footed to the returns as they were sent in. While up the returns as they were sent in. While there was a noticeable absence of many old-time Democrats who on former election nights have crowded the hall there was, nevertheless, a large gathering of men who appeared to be heartly pleased over the results of the day's voting. The hall rang with cheers at every announcement that McClellan, Grout and Fornes had carried McCarren's face was wreathed in smiles and he gave a powerful hand grip to every one who extended congratulations to him on the success of his efforts to win for Tamon the success of his efforts to win for Tammany. He said that he was sure that Grout had made even a better run than McClellan, and that they had received many Republican votes. He made a speech to the newspaper men in which he said:

Two factors entered into the determination of the result of the election decided to-night.
The first was the supreme disgust of the decent citizens of New York with the filthy and revolting campaign carried on by the fusion organization and the political sewage indulged in by the papers that permitted themselves to be used as allies. The second was the refusal of the partisan Republicans to again subscribe to the non-partisan policy of Mayor Low. The Democratic party was at all stages of the campaign united, and it needed only the arrival of the time to demonstrate it.
Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor

Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor Supreme Court sustee winam s. daylor said:

I could not see how Mayor Low could be reelected. The people do not want a policeman standing behind their backs all the time. The American citizen wants the law, but he does not want it in the person of a policeman standing at his elbow. Police Commissioner Greene was not the man for Mayor Low to appoint at the head of the police force to purify it and to remove what impurities might have crept in during the Tammany rule. The man who was at the head of the Asphalt Trust that corrupted every city government this side of Buffalo should not have been selected for such a position

John F. Clarke, the Democratic candidate for reelection as District Attorney, claims for reciection as District Attorney, claims to be a winner by 12,000. He said that he was very grateful for the result, which showed that his work in the office was appreciated.

Not more than half the returns on the Not more than half the returns on the comptrollership had been received at Police Headquarters early this morning. Those that were received showed that Grout led McClellan in each Assembly district and that he would have a plurality considerably in excess of the head of the ticket.
